Absiskey is a private company created in 1999 by academics, researchers and engineers from a Joint Research Unit of the French CNRS and the Joseph Fourier University, Grenoble, France. Absiskey is employing 13 engineers and consultants. From the very beginning, Absiskey, thanks to its consultants, took advantage of a 20-year management experience of European fundings in very different programs and for R&D projects, accompanying measures, concerted actions, training courses as well as sustained development initiatives.
